Building Safer, More Prepared Organizations

Brian Mixdorf is a security and safety professional dedicated to building strong safety cultures and equipping people to keep personal safety at the forefront. With more than twenty years of experience leading multi-site security operations and emergency readiness, he has focused his career on strengthening safety programs and empowering teams with the skills and confidence to navigate real-world threats. As a healthcare security executive, Brian partnered closely with physicians, nurses, and frontline staff to elevate awareness and preparedness — delivering practical, relatable training on situational awareness, threat recognition, and protective measures that integrate seamlessly into daily practice. Before transitioning into healthcare, Brian held a senior leadership role at Wells Fargo overseeing enterprise internal investigations teams. His approach centers on awareness, preparation, and the confidence to act decisively. Brian is a Certified Fraud Examiner, trained extensively in emergency management and threat mitigation, and serves as a volunteer Police Reserve Officer for the City of Hopkins, Minnesota. He also served as President of the Minnesota Association of Healthcare Security and Safety, supporting statewide collaboration and professional development across the healthcare security community.

Healthcare workers are 5x more likely to experience workplace violence than employees in any other industry, and violence now costs U.S. hospitals more than $18 billion a year. (Bureau of Labor Statistics / American Hospital Association)
